Pending We've authorized these transactions, but haven't processed them yet, so they may not be reflected in your available balance. When you use a debit card to pay a merchant, or you initiate a deposit, withdrawal or transfer to your account, you authorize the transaction amount Pending credits from a purchase return may not be reflected in your available balance. Pending transactions typically post within 1-3 business days Once we process a pending transaction, you'll see the posted date and amount reflected in your balance. The final dollar amount may vary from the pending transaction once we process it This is common for merchants that put a temporary charge on your account before finalizing the amount (for example, hotels, restaurants, gas stations and car rental merchants).
